Nineteenth Century Journals with Swan River / Western Australian content.

- 203.Swan River. The Literary Gazette. December 13, 1828. ( A copy of this journal was included in my catalogue 110, two years ago. That copy sold and I am pleased to be able to offer a second copy.)
 "Proposed Settlement on the Western Coast of New Holland". An article of almost two columns (c.130 lines). This is a report of the 'examination' of the Western Coast of New Holland, to 'ascertain an eligible situation for the establishment of a colony'. Captain James Stirling's explorations, in the 'Success', in February 1827, resulted in the selection of Swan River'. Background history, the Aborigines, climate, soils etc. Contained in a complete copy of the 'Gazette' of 16 pages 27 x 20.5cm, disbound from a bound volume. A light horizontal centre fold. A good clean copy. £100

204.Swan River. The Mirror of Literature, Amusement, and Instruction. A collection of numbers. No. 410 Jan.16, 1830. 4+ columns. Largely extracts from 'Mr. Fraser's Remarks' (i.e. Charles Fraz(s)er, (ADB.1) NSW Botanist, accompanied James Stirling when examining the country in March 1827). Continued in No. 412 Jan. 23, 1830. 4 columns. ( see note below re Frazer's 'Report'). No. 430 May 29.1830. 1 column. A letter dated Perth Jan. 10 (1830). Reports on the situation 'those with wild and romantic ideas of a fortune within six or seven years should stay home; I have no doubt whatever this colony will prosper ...'. No.464 Dec. 11. 1830. 2 columns. 'A newspaper has already appeared at the Swan River settlement. It is dated February 27, 1830, price 1s. 6d. ... it is not printed but written! (on loan from a correspondent in the India House). Quotes extensively with interest, and amusement. No. 480 March 12. 1831 4+ columns. Comments on the previous numbers of 'The Mirror' which contain Swan River content, and reproduces at length an account from Perth Town, Swan River, Western Australia dated Oct. 4, 1830. A considered report on the situation and conditions at Swan River. The difficulties ... which the settlers have been obliged to endure ... exaggerated by the colonial press ... in New South Wales ... to attract emigrants to that country'. No. 501 July 30. 1831. 1 column. 'Notes of a Settler' who describes his meetings with 'the natives' and their ability to repeat accurately the short sentences he spoke to them'. Signed 'M'.

 'Botanical Productions, &c. of the banks of Swan River ...' lately read before the Linnaean Society. And see: Bourke, Michael J. 'On The Swan ...' UWAP. 1987. Page 17 et seq, for the explorations of James Stirling and Charles Frazer.

Nos. 410 and 480 of The Mirror include the full-page wood engravings of 'Swan River', one of which, that with the black swans, 'from an original drawing by one of the expedition', was originally published by Mr. J.W. Huggins, 105 Leadenhall Street, London. See images below.

The editor also indicates that two earlier numbers of his journal (368 & 369), not included here, contained the Regulations issued by the Colonial Office. The collection of 6 complete numbers extracted from bound volumes. Very good clean copies.

Now stapled into thin card covers with paper title label.

205.Swan River Settlement. Chambers Edinburgh Journal. November 30, 1833. Extensive extracts, with comment, from two recent publications. The first by Lieutenant Brereton (sic) [Breton, William Henry. Excursions in New South Wales, Western Australia, and Van Diemen's Land ... 1830 – 1833. Bentley. London. 1833. F.1631]. He arrived in October 1829, is very critical of the position of and conditions in Fremantle, although he considers the spot chosen for Perth, the intended capital "well chosen" and "affords some highly interesting views". He is though generally critical. The second, a new work, entitled 'England and America' (published anonymously though by Edward Gibbon Wakefield. F.1725) discusses the establishment of the Colony, the actions of Mr. Peel and his difficulties engaging servants and labourers. The editor of the Journal adds a paragraph advising against emigration to Swan River. In all c.23 inches (58cm) of page size 12 x 9ins/30 x 23cm. A complete number of the Journal, of 8 pages, extracted from a bound volume. Very good clean copy.

206.Mr. Ogle's Western Australia. The Spectator for the week ending Saturday, October 19, 1839. A detailed analysis and consideration of the situation of Swan River, the description, opportunities and development. Nathaniel Ogle's book (F.2819) is then reviewed and lengthy extracts included. In all 38 column inches (97cm) contained in a complete number of the Spectator, of 24 pages, 13 x 8.5 inches. Extracted from a bound volume. One light horizontal fold. Good copy. £35

207. Western Australia. Chambers Edinburgh Journal. March 4, 1843. An analysis of an official report that "has just reached us", with editorial comment. The 'report' is 'New Holland: its Colonization, Productions, and Resources'. By Thomas Bartlett. (F.3563), but the article is confined to Western Australia. 9 column inches (23cm). A complete number of the journal, 13 x 9 inches, extracted from a bound volume. Light horizontal fold. Good clean copy. £20

208. The New Convict Establishment in Western Australia. Chambers Edinburgh Journal. August 14, 1852. Two full pages, c.32 column inches (81cm). A lengthy analysis of the establishment of the new convict settlement at Fremantle; numbers arriving, accommodation, employment, hours kept, rules and regulations, breach of discipline, etc. Tickets of Leave, employment, earnings, good reports. The details extracted from the official 'Blue Book'. Complete number of the journal, 16pp. 10 x 7 inches. (c.25 x 17cm). Smaller format than previously. Extracted from a bound volume. Good copy. WITH: a related short article on the consequences of sending convicts to W.A. contained in: The Spectator July 23, 1853. 4+ inches (11cm). Two items. £35

209. The Punishment of Crime. The York Herald. February 27, 1864. Editorial discussion of the need to punish criminals for a lengthy period and for continuing the transportation to Western Australia, where they are welcome in order to increase the labour supply, whereas the Eastern Colonies are totally opposed to the continuance, not wishing to continue to be 'the receptacle for the scum of English society'. An entire column c.20 inches (50cm). Entire copy of the journal, 12 pages, 24 x 16 inches (c.61 x 41cm). extracted from a bound volume and folded twice. Final leaf detached. Good copy. £20

210. The Australian Cinderella. Chambers's Journal. Sixth Series. Vol. VII. Jan, 30, 1904. The lead article of 3+ pages, 10 x 7 inches. (25 x 17cm), double-column. 'Western Australia is at present the most interesting of the Australian states. ... fine exploratory work ... ten short years she has surprised every one by the magnitude of her public works'. Coolgardie Water Scheme, The Eastern Goldfields, Wages, Perth, the Six Families, Hospitalities. Contained in a complete number, extracted from a bound volume. Good copy. £15

227. New Colony on the Swan River. The London Literary Gazette. May 5th. 1832. By 'A Distinguished Staff Officer in India'. Perth Swan River, Sept. 1831. (A letter). "This place is possibly the most interesting and extraordinary spot ... We took up abode at the Stirling Arms, no contemptible inn ... Perth is not so much advanced as Fremantle ... it is progressing most thrivingly. We were received with the most unbounded hospitality by Captain and Mrs. Stirling ... The cattle of the country thrive surprisingly on the natural grasses of this country ... The privations and misery which the poor women and children have undergone on their first arrival ... the face of matters is now, however, completely changed ... there is a settlement in progress at King George's Sound ... 18 column inches (46cm). A complete number of the journal 16pp. c.10 x 8 inches. Extracted from a bound volume. Good clean copy. £40
